Occasionally we are asked "what is the Anti-Racism Affinity Group of Greater Newburyport?" and "can I join?" We are a small group that has been meeting since May, 2017 to support, discuss, and learn about systemic racism and intersectional issues generally, as well as mentor others beginning their journeys of anti-racism.

We support and challenge one another in our own education through books, movies, articles, podcasts, workshops, etc., and look at ways to share these ideas and information with the community, with individuals, and with others who wish to begin their own learning pods.

We stand in solidarity with all those working to end racism, inequality, war and imperialism, while also supporting efforts to build power in working class communities of color. Collective and individual liberation for all!

Minding the Gap: Gender and the Mental Health Crisis

Friday, April 28, 9 AM ET Knafel Center OR Online on Zoom

This year's gender conference will explore the relationship between gender and mental health from an intersectional perspective, with a focus on youth, underserved communities, and the impact of social justice issues. Speakers will consider the relations between gender and mental health along multiple axes - including genetics, lived experience, vulnerabilities, disparate impacts, and access to healthcare. Finally, we will discuss ways to increase resilience and focus on prevention. Free & open to the public.

Register for Apr. 28 Conference

We are so grateful to have Christa traveling from Toronto, Canada to speak!

Thursday May 4th from 5PM to 7PM

Doors open at 4PM for time to enjoy a glass of wine from the cash bar and explore Alnoba's ground and art.

Join us for an intimate conversation with Christa Big Canoe, Legal Director for Aboriginal Legal Services, who served as lead counsel for Canada's National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Women and Girls.

Christa Big Canoe introduces herself as a mother and a lawyer. But you don't have to speak with her long to notice that beyond these labels is a change-maker.

Known for her role as senior legal counsel for the National Inquiry into Missing and Murdered Indigenous Women and Girls (MMIWAG), Christa has devoted herself to rerouting centuries of deadly and discriminatory action toward Canada's First Peoples. Her approach is to find systemic changes to systemic problems. And her vision for change is rooted in storytelling.

Beyond White Fragility: Digging Deeper

Marian Leighton Levy

In this 4-meeting class, Marian will lead the class in reading and discussing selections from Robin D.G. Kelley's now-classic book on this topic. The goal is to learn more about the major role and contributions of the Black Radical Imagination in the history of the social, cultural, and intellectual history in the U.S. overall. There is no more inspiring single book on this often-overlooked and underappreciated area than this one, whether as introduction or for digging deeper. All readings are from the text, "Freedom Dreams: The Black Radical Imagination." Purchase of the book, available in paperback, is recommended.

Marian Leighton Levy is a co-founder of Rounder Records and has been involved in radical politics since the late 1960s. She has co-facilitated or taught several other Lyceum courses.

Four, 2-hour sessions: Tuesdays, 5:30 – 7:30 p.m.

Begins May 9, 2023. Location: Paula Estey Gallery, 3 Harris Street, Newburyport.

Cost: $40. Class Limit: 15.

Interacting With Wabanaki / Maine History - Public

Online event

Event by Wabanaki REACH

We invite you to join us via Zoom on May 9th, 12:00pm for the program Interacting with Wabanaki Maine History, a two-hour interactive experience in which we engage in a story of particular events in the history of 400-years of colonization of Wabanaki people by Europeans in this territory now called the state of Maine.

This experience will help deepen understanding of colonization and what it means for each of us now and for the future generations of Mainers, providing an opportunity to reflect on the story we are currently writing for our descendants.

Are you willing to take on a short reading that will be provided to you before the event? Let us know by contacting us at the email listed on our website Registration Page.

This program is free and open to the public - Space is limited and registration is required.

About this event

"This is not the cold archival work of gathering facts from acid-free boxes but archive as grieving, improvisation, autobiography and kinship." -- Ryan Lee Wong, Los Angeles Times

"Concentrate should be required reading for anyone who seeks to commit themselves to Black-Asian solidarity as theory and/or practice. This is a major work, a profoundly moving anti- erasure crafted with equal parts ingenuity and care." -- Franny Choi, author of The World Keeps Ending, and the World Goes On

In Concentrate, Courtney Faye Taylor explores the under-told history of the murder of Latasha Harlins – a fifteen-year-old Black girl killed by Korean American shopkeeper, Soon Ja Du, after being falsely accused of shoplifting a bottle of orange juice.

What is Juneteenth?

Juneteenth is an American Holiday that commemorates June 19, 1865, the date that enslaved Black people of Galveston, Texas, learned that President Abraham Lincoln had freed enslaved people in rebel states two and a half years earlier. 250,000 Black Americans learned of their freedom on that day!

Juneteenth is a celebration of freedom.

Juneteenth is a day to focus on the complexity of the Black American experience.

Juneteenth Celebration 2023

Reading the Bones: Celebrating the African Diaspora

June 10, 15, 16, 17, 18 & 19, 2023

The celebration includes a tour, a panel discussion, a Reggae festival, a gospel choir concert, African drumming, and more...

Reading the bones is both an ancient and modern form of divination found in all civilizations. Divination is among the earliest human spiritual practices concerned with choosing actions that were in accord with the "will of heaven" to allay uncertainty, heal illness, or navigate issues of tribal importance.

Interestingly, the casting and reading of the bones take on a different connotation when we consider the rediscovery of the 18th-century African burying ground in Portsmouth, NH. This accidental unearthing of African remains on a city street that had been forgotten, paved over, and built upon forced the city and the state at large to acknowledge their history of enslaving humans and the presence of Africans in the region before enslavement.

BHTNH offers this weeklong Juneteenth celebration to honor these early African settlers and their descendants for their extraordinary contributions to the growth of this region. We honor the African traders who interacted with the Indigenous tribal nations long before European settlers landed on these shores. We honor the Africans who survived the Middle Passage and the successive generations of the African diaspora who continue to contribute to the development, wealth, and well-being of New England.

AFRICAN ROOTS: HERBAL MEDICINE, INOCULATION & THE SHAKER CONNECTION

By the beginning of the nineteenth century, Europeans and Africans living in America joined with Native Americans, creating plant-based therapies to care for the body. The Shakers, at Canterbury and other villages, not only adopted some of these therapies but also refined and sold their own remedies.

Join Curator and Historian Dr. Shirley Wajda for a special talk and tour on the history of medicine at Canterbury Shaker Village. Participants will explore several buildings including the Infirmary and the Syrup Shop. Additionally, Dr. Wajda will place the Shakers' use and development of medicine in the broader context of early American life. Along the way, participants will learn more about Sister Edith Green an African American Shaker who lived, worked, and worshipped at Canterbury Shaker Village.

Wednesday, June 14 | Panel Discussion | 6:00 PM | Currier Museum | Manchester, NH STILL, UPROOTED? HEARTACHE AND HOPE IN NEW HAMPSHIRE

In 2009, the Center for the Humanities at the University of New Hampshire produced a 30-minute documentary, Uprooted: Heartache and Hope in New Hampshire, that featured the lives of five refugees who were re-settled in New Hampshire. They told their personal stories of war, persecution, refugee camps, and starting again in New Hampshire. Umija and Rasim Gusinac, Udai Baskota, Zahara Mahitula, and Munaf Mahmood come from different countries and backgrounds, but they are part of New Hampshire's ongoing demographic narrative.

This program will revisit the narrative from the film as we learn where these individuals' journeys have taken them, particularly their continued search to establish a home and develop a sense of belonging in our state.

McKinley Wallace III, a mixed-media painter and art educator, paints, draws, and collages to tell stories of power manifested in resilient peoples.

Exploring race, history, and intersectionality, Wallace's artistic ideas are often expressed in a graphic style that incorporates realism, minimalism, and hard-edge painting. Strengthened by my role as a Black educator, I capture moments of atmospheric and direct tension and rebellion to rattle America's exclusionary ideals and legacies – choices enacted by the impact of deferring Black joy for centuries.

Join us for this opening reception where McKinley Wallace and the other artist sharing the Gallery space at the same time will be engaging in a moderated artist conversation together to talk about their work and process, and open questions up to Gallery attendees as well as those watching via live stream on Twitch.

This event is brought to you by 3S Artspace. It is free and open to the public.

It is not an overstatement to say that world culture has been influenced by Jamaican reggae music and culture. With its roots grounded in an African sensibility of expressing philosophical words through music, its slow rhythmic beat, its militant, rebellious, and spiritual lyrics, and its positive message about unity, reggae continues to be a source for highlighting issues of social justice.

This festival celebrates the music of the African Diaspora and honors the legacy of roots reggae. Join us for performances by reggae legends, Marcia Griffiths, Brigadier Jerry, Nadine Southerland, Onix Brown, Lady G, and Glen Washington; Caribbean foods, craft vendors, and a chance to vibe to great music.

CAMILLE A. BROWN & DANCERS: RECLAIMING BLACK NARRATIVES

In African societies, dance serves many complex social purposes. Often there is no clear distinction between ritual celebration, social recreation, and history-keeping. African Diasporic dances, Samba and tap dance, line dance, hip hop, Capoeira, and twerking are all dance styles that have their origins on the continent of Africa.

Camille A. Brown and Dancers is a group that is reclaiming Black narratives for Black and brown people and elevating African Diasporic culture to its rightful place in American society. Spreading the joy of dance, they create and present performances that celebrate community, investigate historical and contemporary culture and recognize our shared humanity.

Monday, June 19 | 11:00 AM | African Drumming | African Burying Ground | FREE

THE HEALING RHYTHM OF THE DRUMS

Traditionally the drum was the heartbeat and soul of African communities, thus holding deep historic and symbolic significance. The drums herald political and social events and ceremonies of birth, death, and marriage. They spark courtships, home-coming and going, and accompany religious rites and rituals that call up ancestral spirits while creating an atmosphere that promotes healing and social resilience.

This commemorative event, live streaming from the Portsmouth African Burying Ground, pays homage to the ancestors buried there. The healing beat of the drums provided by Akwaaba Ensemble, an African drumming and dance group, and a ceremony by Rev. Robert Thompson will honor the ancestors who survived upon these shores.

The Event is Free and Open to the Public.

Monday, June 19 | 2:00 PM | Gospel Choir Performance | South Church | $35 pp

FROM AFRICA TO AMERICA: WE ARE THE DRUMS

Performance plays a key role in narrating the African story in America. The Negro spirituals sung by enslaved Africans laid the foundation for today's gospel, blues, jazz, and rap music. All of these musical forms provide artists the chance to express the Black experience.

Returning to Portsmouth, The Howard Gospel Choir, a group of students, alumni, and community members from Howard University, will lift our spirits as we celebrate, heal, and empower our communities. As the first college choir of its kind in the world, the Howard Gospel Choir is a trailblazer for gospel music ministries on collegiate campuses across the globe.

Choir Members Include: Choir Director: Ray Bramble

Cost is $35 per person. Space is Limited.

Great ideas and project worth exploring --

PLACE JUSTICE is a statewide truth-seeking and historical recovery initiative of the Permanent Commission on the Status of Racial, Indigenous, and Tribal Populations that seeks to engage Wabanaki and Maine communities in examining a wide range of commemorative practices to better understand the ways in which racialized and Indigenous populations are represented in or absent from the narratives inscribed on our natural and built environment.

At its core, the Place Justice initiative is about making Maine a place that is safe and welcoming, where all people experience a deep sense of belonging and feel protected based on their inherent dignity and worth.

Who gets memorialized through naming practices and historical markers is a strong indicator of a society's values and its dominant sense of collective identity. By considering place names as well as monuments, historical plaques, exhibitions, cemeteries, and other forms of remembrance at the local level, this community-engaged inquiry will reveal some of the ways in which ideas about our collective identity are crafted, circulated, and contested.

The Morning Show with Mary Jacobsen - April 6th, 2023 "Intersex" Kimberly Zieselman

On this episode (33 min.), Mary Jacobsen speaks with Kimberly Zieselman about her book, XOXY, an award-winning memoir of her personal and professional intersex journey. Zieselman is an intersex woman, lawyer and human rights advocate. She served as the executive director of interACT: Advocates for Intersex Youth. In 2022 the State Dept. appointed her Senior Advisor to the Special Envoy for LGBTQI+ Human Rights.

Zieselman explains the meaning of intersex, which refers to someone born with sex characteristics (chromosomes, reproductive organs or genitalia) that don't line up with typical definitions of either a "male" or "female" body. Nearly 2% of the world's population are born intersex, about the same number of people who have green eyes. Zieselman will correct common misconceptions of what it means to be intersex, and will describe how binary notions of gender and sex embedded in U.S. health care have contributed to life-long harms of intersex persons, including surgical interventions performed on infants.
